IIIT-B M. Tech Scholarships

With the encouragement and assistance from five companies (ABB, Infosys, Intel, NXP and Siemens), IIIT-B has started a scholarship scheme for its M. Tech. students from academic year 2008-09. The scholarship scheme will now be in its third year; with more companies such as, HP, AMD and EMC having joined the list of sponsors.

The program broadly works as follows:

Scholar Selection:

The companies are given all the available information of the candidates selected for admission into IIIT-B M. Tech. program. Based on the information, the company representatives shortlist a few candidates for an interview and then scholarships.

Company Involvement

The company sponsors its scholars during their course of studies at IIIT-B. The scholarship is paid to the students on monthly basis over the duration of two years. The sponsors are encouraged to maintain regular contact (through a designated contact person) with the scholars. The scholars are expected to start working on some small projects with the sponsored company during the summer semesters and third semester. In the last semester, the scholars may be hired as an intern in the sponsored company. The sponsored company has the option of hiring the scholars for a full time position after the completion of their degree; provided the conditions are mutually agreeable.

IIIT-B Involvement

The institute sends regular updates on the academic performance of the scholars and ensure that the channels of communication stay open. Any research project may be co-guided by IIIT-B faculty members, provided the research interests match.
