

Two Turing-Award Winning Ideas in Computer Science

Prof. Ashish Choudhary (IIIT-B, Bangalore)

In this lecture, I will discuss two fundamental concepts in secure distributed computing, namely Zero-knowledge protocols and Byzantine agreement protocols. We will see, how these primitives can be instantiated by using fundamental tools from different branches of computer science.